

Thanksgiving Thoughts

Thanksgiving conjures images of football and turkey and a house full of excited children making far too much noise. You look into the kitchen and see all the turkey and cranberries (and my mother's "veal modenese") and you are thankful.

This Thanksgiving, I urge you to remember some of the things generally overlooked when we are in the midst of the family celebration.

Think of our freedom and the great and prosperous country in which we live. Think of your good fortune. Think of all the people who helped make you who you are. Remember your youth and think of ways to help the future's children get the best possible start.

Remember and be thankful for the simple things in life. The love and respect we receive from others...the truly important gifts we so easily take for granted. This is how I best Give Thanks!

We at Bernardi Securities, Inc. have just completed our 14th year. Our clients and we have prospered over the past fourteen years and we thank you for your confidence in our abilities. We thank you for entrusting to us some of your future.

We also thank you who have been referring us to your family and friends. Your referrals are a high compliment and there is no better feeling than having satisfied clients who refer us to others for their investment needs. We will always strive to go the extra mile for our clients and hopefully that is one of the reasons our clients continue with us.

Thank you and Happy Thanksgiving!

Ronald P. Bernardi,
